Numb. 15309.

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Saturday November 8, to Tuesday November 11, 1800.

Weſtminſter, November 11, 1800.

THIS Day His Majeſty came to the Houſe of Peers, and being in His Royal Robes, ſeated on the Throne with the uſual Solemnity, Sir Francis Molyneux, Gentleman Uſher of the Black Rod, was ſent with a Meſſage from His Majeſty to the Houſe of Commons, commanding their Attendance in the Houſe of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majeſty was pleaſed to make the following moſt gracious Speech:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

My tender Concern for the Welfare of My Subjects, and a Senſe of the Difficulties with which the poorer Claſſes particularly have to ſtruggle, from the preſent high Price of Proviſions, have induced Me to call you together at an earlier Period than I had otherwiſe intended. No Object can be nearer My Heart than that, by your Care and Wiſdom, all ſuch Meaſures may be adopted as may, upon full Conſideration, appear beſt calculated to alleviate this ſevere Preſſure, and to prevent the Danger of its Recurrence, by promoting, as far as poſſible, the permanent Extenſion and Improvement of Our Agriculture.

For the Object of immediate Relief, your Attention will naturally be directed, in the firſt Inſtance, to the beſt Mode of affording the earlieſt and the moſt ample Encouragement for the Importation of all Deſcriptions of Grain from Abroad.

Such a Supply, aided by the Examples which you have ſet on former Occaſions of Attention to Economy and Frugality in the Conſumption of Corn, is moſt likely to contribute to a Reduction in the preſent high Price, and to inſure, at the ſame Time, the Means of meeting the Demands for the neceſſary Conſumption of the Year.

The preſent Circumſtances will alſo, I am perſuaded, render the State of the Laws reſpecting the Commerce in the various Articles of Proviſion the Object of your ſerious Deliberation.

If, on the Reſult of that Deliberation, it ſhall appear to you that the Evil neceſſarily ariſing from unfavorable Seaſons has been encreaſed by any undue Combinations or fraudulent Practices for the Sake of adding unfairly to the Price, you will feel an earneſt Deſire of effectually preventing ſuch Abuſes; but you will, I am ſure, be careful to diſtinguiſh any Practices of this Nature from that regular and long eſtabliſhed Courſe of Trade which Experience has ſhewn to be indiſpenſable, in the preſent State of Society, for the Supply of the Markets, and for the Subſiſtence of My People.

You will have ſeen with Concern the temporary Diſturbances which have taken place in ſome Parts of the Kingdom. Thoſe malicious and diſaffected Perſons, who cruelly take Advantage of the preſent Difficulties to excite any of My Subjects to Acts in Violation of the Laws and of the public Peace, are in the preſent Circumſtances doubly criminal, as ſuch Proceedings muſt neceſſarily and immediately tend to encreaſe, in the higheſt Degree, the Evil complained of; while they, at the ſame Time, endanger the permanent Tranquillity of the Country, on which the Well-being of the induſtrious Claſſes of the Community muſt always principally depend.

The voluntary Exertions which have on this Occaſion been made for the immediate Repreſſion of theſe Outrages, and in Support of the Laws and public Peace, are therefore entitled to My higheſt Praiſe.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

Under the circumſtances of the preſent Meeting, I am deſirous of aſking of you ſuch Supplies only as may be neceſſary for carrying on the public Service, till the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland may conveniently be aſſembled. The Eſtimates for that Purpoſe will be laid before you; and I have no Doubt of your Readineſs to make ſuch Proviſion as the public Intereſts may appear to require.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I have directed Copies to be laid before you, of thoſe Communications which have recently paſſed between Me and the French Government, reſpecting the Commencement of the Negotiations for Peace. You will ſee in them freſh and ſtriking Proofs of My earneſt Deſire to contribute to the Re-eſtabliſhment of general Tranquillity. That Deſire on My Part has hitherto been unhappily fruſtrated, by the Determination of the Enemy to enter only on a ſeparate Negotiation, in which it was impoſſible for Me to engage, conſiſtently, either with public Faith, or with a due Regard to the permanent Security of Europe.

My Anxiety for the ſpeedy Reſtoration of Peace remains unaltered; and there will be no Obſtacle nor Delay on My Part to the Adoption of ſuch Meaſures as may beſt tend to promote and accelerate that deſirable End, conſiſtently with the Honor of this Country, and the true Intereſt of My People: But if the Diſpoſition of Our Enemies ſhould continue to render this great Object of all My Wiſhes unattainable, without the Sacrifice of theſe eſſential Conſiderations, on the Maintenance of which all its Advantages muſt depend, you will, I am confident, perſevere in affording Me the ſame loyal and ſteady Support, which I have experienced through the Whole of this important Conteſt, and which has, under the Bleſſing of Providence, enabled Me, during a Period of ſuch unexampled Difficulty and Calamity to all the ſurrounding Nations, to maintain, unimpaired, the Security and Honor of theſe Kingdoms.

By the KING.

A PROCLAMATION,

Containing His Majeſty's Declaration, That it is expedient that the Lords and Commons of the preſent Parliament of Great Britain ſhould be the Members of the reſpective Houſes of the Firſt Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, on the Part of Great Britain; and commanding the ſaid Lords and Commons to give their Attendance accordingly.
